

Morehead Presses 22nd Annual Convocation

THE MOREHEADIAN

Chapel Choir Broadcast
The Foster Chapel Choir will be the first item on the series of programs which will fill this issue of the annual convention of the Kentucky Educational Association. This opening meeting will take place in Columbus Auditorium, Louisville, Wednesday, April 13, starting 7:45 p. m. The chorus will sing Foster songs and Southern Standard classics and modern works.

On the same night they will broadcast from radio station WLAS at 9:45 o'clock. In informing Fred Horton of the host of broadcast, Mr. George Wiedenbach, program director of the station, expressed delight at having the chorus again, commenting upon the time impression which they made last year.

Hill Penman
Even nature seems to sense the depression which our institution is going through and is trying to cheer it up. Light Monday night a week ago a large group of students and town people witnessed the passing of a large and perfect "M" formed on a hill in western Kentucky. The "M" was created when two brush fires burned toward each other and meeting was a matter of time as to whether nature was trying to out-ribe the basketball players in their new creation, or whether it was the "writing on the wall," prophesying bigger and better things for Morehead State College.

Spring Vacation
Spring vacation starts Wednesday morning, April 13, at noon and continues until Monday morning, 8 o'clock. Absences from classes are immediately before and after these dates will be counted double cuts.

They Were Ill
A number of students were prevented by illness from taking the mid-semester tests with their classes. Their indispositions were generally attributed to cold feet and cranial vacuity. Fortunately, recovery in time was so prompt that each patient was able to return to class immediately after the test. The attending physician, whose illness is interesting from a psychological standpoint, as it seems to be quite similar mentally. The evidence of this is the unusually good grades made by students who took the test after recovering.

Keep off the Grass
A lot of us know how the campus looked back in the days when we were building. Finding a blade of grass was like finding a four leaf clover—it was hardly ever done. The grass was so green and so lush. This sounds like impractical writing but the idea is that if we keep off the grass, the campus is going to look like that again. Some two years of constant care has kept the campus in good condition and we want to keep it that way. It isn't that we don't have sidewalk! Suppose we have.

Dean Vaughan Is On K. E. A. Committee
Dean William H. Vaughan, Morehead State Teachers College, has been named to the K. E. A. committee on the Program of Public Education in Kentucky. This committee will meet the evening of April 13 in the Brown Hotel. The committee will report Thursday morning to the K. E. A. convention. University is chairman of the committee.

STANDING

Of Williams, Wilson, Cross, Bricker, Detweiler, Ma, Marian Highest

Miss Mabel Williams, about whom an article concerning the excellence of her high school academic career, appeared in the last issue of the Trail Blazer, has very satisfactorily proved that she can not only make grades in high school but can continue leading her classmates in college. Miss Williams graduated from the high school last February, enjoyed college immediately and came to the front with flying colors in her scholastic work. She made first place on the honor roll of mid-semester, leading the co-eds with a standing of 2.7.

Miss Lucille Wilson, another one of the best students on the campus, who has had the honor of being placed on the honor roll before in second and gave Miss Williams a close race for first position. Her standing was also 2.7 but a few hundredths of a point made the difference in ranking.

The third place is granted to Miss Alousie Cross who has a standing of 2.4. This is the second time Miss Cross has been placed in the high grades, the other time being the previous semester. Miss Cross is a sophomore and has been in college this year and one who is rapidly making a reputation with her scholastic ability.

Ranking fourth and fifth respectively are Nell Casidy, with a standing of 2.35 and Margaret Davis, 2.32.

Of the college men, Emory Bricker is first in position. His record placed him to Daniel Detweiler with a standing of 2.6, and Van Magnuson 2.5.

These grades were so close that the order of ranking was not decided.

DEBATERS

Cancel Trip To Cincinnati; Will Meet Transylvania, Louisville

Due to the retrenchment in extracurricular activities necessitated by lack of revenue, the trip of the debating team to the University of Cincinnati has been cancelled. However, former activities in a limited way will be continued. On April 28 and 29, the team will meet teams representing Transylvania and the University of Louisville respectively. The debaters from Morehead who will make the trip have not been selected by the coach as yet but they will be selected from the debating squad of members. Morehead will debate the negative side. The question is: "Resolved that Congress should enact legislation providing for the centralized control of industry."

On Tuesday night, April 12, Morehead will entertain debaters from Lee's College. This intercollegiate debate will be held at the regular meeting of the Lloyd Debaters Club. Morehead will be represented by Miss Beatrice Goodwin and Miss Lucille Wilson. Goodwin and Mr. Bailey are both freshmen and this will be their first debate in the field of collegiate debating.

Negotiations are being carried on with the University of Louisville-Southern College for their traveling team to visit Morehead for a debate the latter part of April.

Dean William H. Vaughan Approves Of Higher Standards For Superintendents

"I think the county school superintendents named by the last session of the legislature is the most important step in educational progress since the county superintendent law in 1926," was the reply of Dean William H. Vaughan, of Morehead State Teachers College, when asked for his opinion on the new superintendent law.

He then quoted the law: "A county school superintendent must have four years college plus six hours in administration and supervision, and must have had four years experience as supervisor or administrator of schools."

"I think perhaps forty percent of the county school superintendents will be leading off will be ineligible under the new law. It should put professional school men in office. Bachelor degree and four years administration and supervision should bring the county school superintendents' prestige never had before. County school superintendents should be the best trained men in the county."

Dean Vaughan further said, "If enforced the way written, for the superintendent's prestige never had before. County school superintendents should be the best trained men in the county."

"What Makes A Teacher Popular At Morehead?" Students Discuss

A teacher who has a sense of humor, who smiles and speaks to the students on the street, and who is not afraid to talk to the students in the street, is the most popular, according to answers from ninety students. The only instructor in answer to a recent question.

Impartiality, interest in extracurricular activities, and ability to make the course interesting were the next leading qualities. Whether a teacher is to be well-liked should be "easy" or "hard" was a matter of much discussion. More than twice as many students preferred the "easy" type, rather than the "hard" type. As one upright young college teacher or perhaps just "easy" teacher, who feels the students with a person who is 95 percent of the time to sleep. The teacher who can encourage his students to work without making them groan, is the most popular by far the best work. A teacher should be able to give his students incentive enough to do the work without holding a threat or a promise of the almighty grade.

But of course there is happy John.

BERIA STUDENT HELPS DAD REGISTER HERE

A number of parents were at M. S. T. C. on April 4, arranging for the enrollment of sons and daughters. The students who were here, T. U. Fann of Olympia Springs, Miss. and Harry Davis of Morehead State College. Miss Fann was enrolled at Berea two years ago and is now paying him back by coming to Morehead State Teachers College. Rev. Fann was graduated from the Baptist Theological Seminary in Nashville, Tenn., and is now minister of the gospel since that time. In his present position as head of the Berea Baptist Church, he is instructed he must teach as well as preach, and so he has come to M. S. T. C. for teachers training.

DEAN W. H. VAUGHAN

"The raising of the qualifications of a county school superintendent may possibly eliminate a great deal of politics which has entered into the selection of superintendents," said Dean Vaughan. "There are all so possibilities that in some counties there will be found no qualified county school superintendents."

This should mean that the

REGISTRATION

On April 4, 5 For Spring Term Brings Total Enrollment Past 1,300

Tabulations released from the dean's office concerning Morehead State Teachers College as registration for mid-semester closed last week, showed that 154 students had enrolled for college work and 45 had entered the high school department of the institution. This brings the total number of resident students at the college to 1275, the largest enrollment the school has ever had at this time of the year.

The total number of students registered at the present time represents an increase of about 200 more than at a corresponding date last year, with the number of college students showing the largest increase.

More than 100 rooms that were vacant in the girls' dormitories were filled by advance newcomers, forcing the majority of students to leave the men to stay out in private homes.

To take care of the increased enrollment three additional instructors were added to the faculty. Mr. George Taylor, of Owingville, was engaged for the training school department. Mr. Young holds a B. S. degree from Central College, Arkville, Wheeler, County Superintendent of Johnson County, was added as A. B. degree from College and a year's graduate work at the University of Chicago, has been added as a member of the department of education. He has been service in the college before. Mr. Taylor is primarily engaged not only in the college but throughout the state. Miss Taylor holds a B. S. with a Master's degree from Peabody Teachers College, is an addition to the history department of the training school.

CASH

Eleven high school students were chosen for the cast of the play "Green Stockings" which will be presented by the high school senior class in the near future. Trystis were held in the training school auditorium Wednesday night, April 6.

The male roles will be played by: "Blair" as Admiral "Grip" Logan Riddle as William Paraday, Raymond Paul as Colonel Smith, John Paul Nickell as Robert Tarver, Elmer Blair as Admiral "Grip" Logan Riddle as William Paraday, Grace Gray as Martin. In the female roles are cast Sarah Prayley as Col. Paraday, Alia Hoot as Captain, Esther Crosswhite as Evelyn, Lillian Mestow as Phyllis, and Viola Sparks as Mrs. Charles Paraday.

The play is a three act comedy by A. E. W. Mason and has few equal in sheer drollery and capital fun. It had an extended run at Marine Hotel theatre in New York City.

The cast was chosen by a faculty committee composed of Mrs. Alton Palmer, Miss Rita Phalen, Mr. Neville and Mr. St. John. The date has been set for the second week of May but definite announcement will be made later.

A general meeting of the cast was held Friday afternoon, April 8, to discuss and make the final arrangements. Formal practice started last night at the Vanita Minch is directing the play.

Cress Is Chosen Queen For May Day Program

By The Campus Stroller

"A'Maying we will go, A'Maying we will go, Heigh ho the merrie, A'Maying we will go."

Miss Alousie Cross of Danville, Ky. was elected last week by a very small majority to be crowned Queen of May at Morehead State Teachers College. Miss Cross, who is a sophomore, is very prominent in scholastic and campus activities. Before entering Morehead she gained recognition as an honor student at Kentucky College for Women.

Miss Cross has a scholastic standing of 2.4.

In the spring a young man's fancy— and so forth and so on.

Spring has sprung. There's no doubt about it. The weather is shining. But for the students of Morehead State Teachers College, spring has not officially arrived, nor will it arrive until after May 1, 1932. For, shortly after this date, the students of this institution will enter on the campus in front of the main building of the college, the sole purpose of conducting their ceremonies sanctioning the fact that of the institution, no restrictions spring has sprung.

In order to properly demonstrate their appreciation of the arrangement, the May Day programme committee has arranged a programme, which from all indications will be one of the most beautiful ever seen on the campus.

After a warmtime, nervous period of peeping through windows, eavesdropping through keyholes and vicarious observation of the future, the Stroll: was lucky enough to gather a few friends in regard to the procession. The parade will be known that Prince Charles will accompany the Queen of May down the aisle to the throne in the process of election by the members of the so-called fair sex of the school.

Now for the programme proper. The throne will be on the back corner line of a semi-circular raised platform. Each side will be seats of the lords and ladies-in-waiting. The flower girls will be at each end of the throne. As the hostess, the Queen of May comes striding down the aisle with her Prince Charming, the flower girls will be seated on either side of the throne.

After the crowning, which will be the major event, a short program will be held. The programme of the King and Queen and the many spectators. The title of the pageant will be "The Queen of May Day." It was written by Eleanor Lane Peabody and was first presented at Morehead State Teachers College. Those who have seen it say that it is one of the most original and beautiful pageant ever written. The ceremonies will be ended with a short program.

Dr. Hoke At Conference

A Kentucky White House Conference on Child Welfare was held at the Lafayette Hotel at Lexington last Saturday. The local college was represented by Dr. R. L. Hoke. The meeting composed of thirty five representatives from various parts of the state was presided over by President Frank McVey. The University of Kentucky was asked to accept the sponsorship of an all-state White House Conference to be held next fall. It was decided at the suggestion of President H. L. Dunne to make the White House Conference a permanent Kentucky organization for the mental, moral, social and physical improvement of Kentucky children. The convention definitely decided to hold White House conferences soon in each county of the state.

DRAMATIC PRE-VIEWS

One of the big dramatic events of the year will be heralded when the play, "Broken Lullabies," makes its appearance on the local scene in April. The show is supported by an all star cast and is an excellent story of children and their love of parents.

The theater goes will be greeted to another great show when "Emma" is presented here. Marie Dressler, who won the actors' award for outstanding performance in 1931, plays the title role. Critics rate this performance of Marie as one of her greatest, far exceeding her work in "Min and Bill" and "Politics". The story of the great common people is one which will be loved by everyone.

On April 27, one of the most unusual pictures ever filmed will be shown here. The play, "Freaks," will be of special educational value to all students of the biology and science departments of the college. This picture is filmed with actual freaks of nature, borrowed from Barnum's circus. The romantic thread is also woven in, when a full grown woman falls in love with a thirty four inch bidget. "Emma" and "Freaks" are the big numbers for April theater goes to watch for.

Romance

From my first casual glance I saw nothing of interest in the boy. He was extremely ordinary. Then I noticed that he had a wonderful, somewhat repouching or securing smile. He walked as if he were afraid of striking the earth too hard, and had a marked stoop from the waist down. Certainly he was not the type of boy who would be romantic. Then one day I saw a dandelion in a button-hole of his shirt and it was a girl, I saw them together. He didn't hold her hand. It wouldn't have been romantic if he had.

Mattie McFarr is one of our bright lights. Her home is near Paris, Kentucky; she has obtained all her college education here except two summer sessions at Richmond. She finished in January and at the June graduation will receive her degree in mathematics, being unbelievably smart in that line. She is now teaching mathematics in the high school.

There is a girl with curly red hair who stands at the door of the cafeteria and informs you that you have misbehaved the time and that serving hours are over. That is only one of the many things that Bertha Brock does. She has twenty-eight typewriters under her supervision and the way she handles her end of the business is commendable. She has been here two and a half years and since Chief Gammon and according to him, Bertha is every bit of all right. He swears by her, she came here from Ashby College. She is a Junior and she plans to work for a B. S. in Home Economics.

Coming here from Stanton Academy, Florence Hall has endured herself to everyone in the three years of her college career. She is the president of the only national organization for girls of the campus—the Y. W. C. A. Her academic standing is good for she is as smart as she is well-liked and that's all. She has been a member of the glee club and is at present a member of the Putnam Choral Club. She is also active in the Nivatorian Club of Allie Young Hall.

Mystery Of Authors Of Henry's Letters Is Here Revealed

The main campus mystery for this semester is the question, "Who is writing Henry's letters?" At last Herkesh Sholmes, the chief detective, has revealed some of the authors of the letters of the boy from Muddy Creek and Sherry.

The first Henry letter in history which appeared in volume one, number one of the Trail Blazer, had the good old days of '29, was written by Mrs. R. L. Hoke. For the remainder of that year, Hubert Cramer, with the aid of Bruce Dorsey and other members of the famous "Beardy Dons" continued the letters.

Hubert graduated with the class of 1930, but Henry did not; he was back in school in the fall of 1930 for the first edition of the paper. Again students asked, "Who is Henry?" According to Detective Sholmes John Bailey and George Scott played the part of Henry for the fall semester of that year. Henry disappeared from the paper the semester of 1931.

Again last fall, when the letters appeared, unnamed writers on a typewriter with a pale ribbon, the mystery deepened. Finally, the editor hired a detective for the case. Result, Bruce Dorsey and Joe Wolford were revealed as co-authors of the salutation, "Maw and Paw too."

George Scott contributed the first two Henry letters this semester; Joe Wolford wrote the remainder of the Muddy Creek letters. But the plot thickens. Another Henry letter appears in this issue—written by a new, unknown author. Therefore the mystery starts all over again.

SUPERINTENDENT'S LAW

tending more people to college to complete work for degree."

When asked to express an opinion on the method of selection of county school superintendents, Don Vaughan replied, "I believe that the political maneuvering and bribery that has taken place in connection with the election of members of boards of education and superintendents in many counties, has become so corrupt that the people were aroused to action. I hope, and firmly believe, that conditions will not be worse but that they will be improved. The old law served its purpose well in Kentucky, until in some cases, corruption and bribery outraged the feelings of decent people."

Dr. H. L. Nickell
Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat
Specialist
Main Street
Morehead, Kentucky

Since my birth a few weeks ago I haven't heard any one wishing I was dead. I am still alive and still a college. Let us on I may cut teeth.

The boys of the campus who have been on this campus are the Carter county lads. They are easily recognized several yards away by the cocky smile they wear. The first boy on Freddie Maloney received the letter. "I was afraid that Freddie would be killed with it as he looked off the stage after the presentation," but, luck, as always was with him.

All the loud laughing and banging around went on in the auditorium practically every night comes from a bunch of yahoos who are getting a play called "Daddies." This is just a little precaution that is kindly meant, so that the girls in Fields hall won't become frightened when they hear John Sholmes get out his special kind of a cat call, George Scott is killing two birds with one stone. Aside from portraying Mr. Allen in the comedy, George is learning to manage the Friday boys who are learning to be a man. He improves with every practice, and he hasn't had Dr. Hake's course in child psychology either.

Mr. Sullivan's foot is much better. I have heard him walking along the boulevard a few evenings ago while the rest of us were having dinner. And, while I am speaking of Sullivan I shall tell another one. Last Tuesday night while the class list was being repaired it suddenly rang Prof was in the library studying and on hearing the call to duty he dutifully replied the back of a chair of his smoking stick and limped toward the stairs. He must have seen the dark through the large window which faces the front. Anyway he came back looking like a hero and slipped into the room opposite the one in which he had been sitting. Friday says he saw one of the dreams I had the night after I got a box of cats from home, but it all sounds reasonable to me.

There has been some criticism of this college and similar institutions for having a faculty dramatic club. There is surely something wrong with the thinking of a student who would say that our faculty dramatic club, in competition with the student club. Pure reasonings would teach us that two plays are not too much to be presented to a college group during one semester. Many of our instructors have studied drama in college, have held membership in college drama clubs, and have figured in productions. Why should they give up their interest and pleasure in this field just because they are instructors in a college whose student body thinks little of it? It is as if we as a group are not strong enough to put on both clubs it is perhaps would be wise to give them up and devote our time to agricultural and educational interests. I suppose the faculty should keep hands off tennis or we students can serve the courts.

I never wanted to have anything in my life as much as I want to know how to play chess. It has been said that I had seen Dr. Hake's chess board, I don't know whether he can play or not; in fact I don't know of many chess players in the town, but judging from the appearance of the board it is early to be a keen game. Since I am quite experienced in chess, I should like to exchange a few lessons in this field for some chess instructions with a student of course.

There is one person on this campus who almost has a Roman nose. In fact, I believe it is Roman, but I can't get close enough to him to verify my suspicions. I am really very happy over the thing because this is the first time I have had an opportunity to use the knowledge I picked from a college course. I had seen in Greek sculpture and architecture, Roman noses are so hard to

Fig The Jaybird

"Tra la la top!" Tra la la top! Fig, the Jay-bird, was laughing about it, as he flipped from place to place on the ground. He was always busily engaged in looking for something.

"Tra la la top!" he laughed as he found it. Sizing it in his beak he heaved it to the top of the beech tree in front of Allie Young Hall. He could not resist the temptation to laugh again, as he perched on the topmost bough of the beech and thought of his secret. After having a moment he flew on to a big place on the campus.

There he espied a bird's nest. Chattering aloud, with a loud note of laughter thrown in, he hopped to the nest. Carefully placing his feet in the nest, he looked all around and seeing that he had a spectator he stealthily gave the "home-bough" as he flew away.

In a more serious vein: The Receptor is going to be something good and we will all want a copy. Much personal enjoyment can come from these annuals when we are away from college. Through them we can live again with students who group themselves about old stone steps; we can hear again the clamor bell and the laughter of class-mates. Associations of old friends become vivid. We can go on being friends with the faces that sit beside us in math and English. We can go on being students and we can show our grandchildren what kind of students we were in the good old days.
